To take one of the games of yesterday's double-header and the other was no easy job when the opponent was one so worthy of the title of "Lawmakers" as the Danville Tobacco Bugs. Yet this is just what Perry Lipe, lawmaker, did, while thousands of "fans" and "singles" went wild with excitement as sensational plays and fast work were pulled off by each team.

The morning game was called at 10:30, and Smiling Dutch Reville was pitted against Walsh. Tom Messitt came for the Danville team, doing the mask and windup honors for the Tobaccoists.

The morning game was fast and exciting throughout, and the rosters of both teams had plenty of opportunity to vent their enthusiasm. The Danville team was in the lead, and anybody's game until the last man was down in the ninth. There were a good many Danville followers, and a crowd of spectators, and they had a good chance to work off some of their surplus enthusiasm when Danville led off in the scoring in the seventh.

When Tydemann, with two hands down, laid up against one of "Dutch" Reville's for a clean, two-strike, the Danville contingent made some fuss, which grew into quite an uproar when Riggs barked out a beautiful double, scoring Tydemann. The fast Danville centre garden-keeper, who had been in the plate with the game's first tally, the Tobaccoist, followed by a deal of enthusiastic demonstration.

But Richmond came in their half of the "lucky seventh," and such a variety of shrieks and yells and all sorts of noises has never been heard in this burg before. The Danville crowd began to root to root with a vengeance, and they never wavered until the big centre fielder had swatted the ball on a line drive out into the left garden. Then, momentarily, the Danville crowd, who were fairly in excited expectation for Riggs was coming in fast on a dead run. Would he get it? This was the question that came from the thousands of excited lips, that filled and intensified the silence of a tense, breathless moment. Then, a huge roar came from the vast throng of Richmond fans and fannies, but before their very astonished eyes Riggs, the Danville pitcher, had hit, and Stinson, breathless, but smiling and happy, was standing on the halfway station, just as safe as if he had knocked the ball out of the air. A mighty roar went up from the vast throng, the like of which has never been heard in Richmond.

The Danville crowd, who were above the park, and gaining volume and headway, it echoed and re-echoed, volleys and reverberated, and the Danville crowd, who were above the park, and gaining volume and headway, it echoed and re-echoed, volleys and reverberated, and the Danville crowd, who were above the park, and gaining volume and headway, it echoed and re-echoed, volleys and reverberated.

Then Jimmy Ison came up to the rubber and what he did to that sphere will go down in the history of baseball, as it is made in Danville. The coming generations will doubtless read how Jimmy saved the day.

He just walked into that ball and proceeded to swing it, not with a whack that sent it bounding "way down between the centre and left gardeners, and while the crowd was going wild again, the Danville crowd, who were above the park, and gaining volume and headway, it echoed and re-echoed, volleys and reverberated.

man, and made nine of the Bugs cut huge hunks out of the ozone. Walker was found for eight hits, but he kept them well scattered, and his fine support kept the scoring down to nothing, except in the fifth inning, when Richmond scored five runs on singles by Quinn, Lipe and Stinson. He struck out three men and sent only one pass, though he hit Kanzer with one of his shots, advancing Lipe to second and Quinn to third.

Stinson Features.
The work of Stinson was again a feature, in accepting five difficult chances in centre field and securing two of Richmond's eight hits. His catch of Powell's terrific drive "way down into deep centre" was one of the prettiest bits of fielding ever seen here. Fisher, of Danville, did some sensational stunts at short, his stop of Quinn's infield hit being a beauty. The work of Tom Messitt and Ryan behind the plate, in both games was as pretty as any one could wish to see, and their throwing was perfect. They backed up their pitcher well and it is hard to say which excelled, as no fault can be found with the exhibition either put up.

Crowd a Record-Breaker.
The crowd that witnessed the afternoon game was a record-breaking one for attendance on a ball game in the city. Fifteen thousand persons were collected in the park, massed in bleachers and grandstands and sitting against the fence in rows eight or ten deep. TRUCKERS TAKE BOTH FROM TARS

Score of First Game 3 to 0 and the Afternoon Contest 2 to 0.

NORFOLK, VA., September 7.—The Truckers took both games from the Tars today, making both shut-outs. The morning game went to them by the score of 3 to 0, and the afternoon game 2 to 0. Hamilton and Hallman had the Crew swatters at their mercy. Hamilton yielded but two hits, while Hallman yielded but three. Carroll and Ellinger were not hit hard, but the Truckers managed to bunch bingles when they counted in the run column. In the old Portsmouth played the cleanest, fastest ball in both games. The feature of both games was the fast fielding of Bonner and Rhynder, for Norfolk.

How the Second Game Scores Were Made.

The scoring in the second game came about this way. Danville scored in the third. Ryan singled, went on second on Walker's sacrifice, was advanced to third by Ison's error, and scored. The Danville pitcher, Reville, scored her only run in the fifth. Quinn singled, went to second on Lipe's hit, and both runners were advanced by the firing line for Richmond, and Walker twirled for Danville. They were both in fine form and fettle. The Danville pitcher, Reville, mixed up a choice assortment and delivered them in fast form to the heavy-hitting Bugs.

The second contest was a beautiful and exciting exhibition, which went into extra innings. The Danville pitcher, Reville, mixed up a choice assortment and delivered them in fast form to the heavy-hitting Bugs.

Glants Divide With Phillies.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., September 7.—New York shut out Philadelphia in this morning's game, 6 to 0. Witke was hit hard in the early innings, but settled down in the last six innings, and was only once in danger of being scored on. Foxen, who batted his opponents for four innings, weakened in the fifth and sixth, when seven hits and a pass netted the visitors five runs. McCormick started New York's rally in the sixth, when he scored. While in the sixth he settled the fate of the game by making a two-bagger with the bases full. The score:

First Game—Score: R. H. E.
New York 6 0 0 0 2 3 0 0—5 10 0

PHILADELPHIA, PA., September 7.

Philadelphia developed a heavy batting streak in the ninth inning of this afternoon's game and beat New York 2 to 1. Corridon pitched very effectively against the New Yorkers, and they got their only run in the fifth, when Birdwell singled, and was forced by Randall, who scored on Tenney's double. With one out in the ninth, Magee singled and scored on Bransfield's double. Doolin scored Bransfield's and won the game with a single.

Second Game—Score: R. H. E.

Philadelphia 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 5 0
Summary: Sacrifice hits—Brennan, Foxen, Richie and Doolin. Time, 1:45. Umpires, Emslie and Klem.

Pittsburg Pulled Off by Pirates.

PITTSBURG, PA., September 7.—Pittsburg won this morning's game from St. Louis by a score of 9 to 7. The game was a batting bee throughout, with the local pitcher, Magee, being hit hard in the early innings of the affair. Sallee replaced Raymond in the second, and Brandon went to the box in the fifth. Pittsburg won by a score of 9 to 7. The score:

Brooklyn Takes Both by Same Score.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., September 7.—Although Pastorius pitched a great game, holding the Boston to a single hit, the visitors won the morning game by a score of 1 to 0. Chappelle was hit for four safeties. The winning run in the fifth inning was batted in by Sweeney, after a hit by McGinn and a timely sacrifice by Dahlen.
